Programme outline

The LLM in Competition Law is designed to equip participants with expertise and skills in the field of competition law. The programme consists of a large selection of modules covering all aspects of competition law and policy. A number of these modules cover key and various competition law regimes around the world. The programme offers participants a flavour of the economic and market context within which the competition rules of these regimes are applied. It includes both theoretical and practical components and will aim to prepare participants for a career in the field, whether as practitioners dealing with real world scenarios or officials dealing policy matters.

Aims of the programme

1. Acquire important knowledge and analytical and practical skills;
2. Develop sound understanding of the operation of different competition law regimes;
3. Appreciate the interaction between law and economics, and law and politics in the field of competition law; as well as the intersection between the field and other fields of law and policy, such as intellectual property law and industrial policy.

What will you be expected to achieve?

Upon successful completion of the LLM in Competition Law, participants should be able to:

1. Demonstrate in-depth knowledge and understanding of the competition rules of different competition law regimes.
2. Enjoy high analytical skills which will enable them to engage in critical assessment of the operation of competition law in practice.
3. Debate in an intellectual manner developments and trends in the field of competition law as well as issues such as reform and future directions for competition law and policy whether at domestic, regional or global levels.
4. Conduct good quality research into issues of competition law and policy and complement that with sound thinking and reflections.

Academic Content:

A 1	Develop theoretical and practical skills which are critical when dealing with the application of competition law
A 2	Develop good understanding of the tools and methods used when competition law is enforced against different business phenomena
A 3	Develop indepth understanding of competition law and policy at national, regional and global levels

Disciplinary Skills - able to:

B 1	Enjoy independence in terms of thinking and an independent ability to research competition law issues
B 2	Develop high analytical skills and critical power in order to appreciate the sound operation of competition law in practice
B 3	Enjoy an ability to exercise good judgment through coherent reasoning when debating current and future changes in the field of competition law

Attributes:

C 1	Communicate ideas and concepts clearly and concisely whether in oral or written forms.
C 2	Show independence to learn and reflect
C 3	Make suitable and competent use of relevant learning resources

How will you learn?

Students will learn through direct interaction with lecturers using a variety of teaching, learning and assessment strategies, including traditional and interactive lectures, seminar sessions, tutorials and e-learning. Students will also be expected to invest a significant amount of time in independent learning, including reading materials in advance of lectures/seminars, preparing class presentations, completing assignments and preparing for examinations. In addition, students will need to carry out extensive research to complete the dissertation. Students will be provided with a variety of legal resources and receive training on how to use them.

How will you be assessed?

Assessment is by examination, oral presentation, essays and/or coursework for taught modules and by dissertation.

How is the programme structured?

Please specify the structure of the programme diets for all variants of the programme (e.g. full-time, part-time - if applicable). The description should be sufficiently detailed to fully define the structure of the diet.

What are the entry requirements?

The usual qualification for entry to the LLM programme is a degree in law, or a degree with a substantial law content, of at least 2.1 honours (or equivalent). Law graduates with 2.2 honours who also have other legal qualifications and/or substantial professional legal experience may also qualify.

Non-law graduates with a minimum second class honours degree, that have also obtained a Merit (or 60 per cent) in the Common Professional Examination (CPE) or Graduate Diploma in Law (GDL) recognised by the UK professional bodies, may also qualify. Non-law graduates may also be considered on the basis of exceptional professional experience (of at least five years) in a legal area or an area directly related to their programme of study.

Applicants whose first language is not English must provide evidence of your English language proficiency. The usual English

Language Requirements for Postgraduate Law Taught Programmes will apply. These may be accessed at <http://www.law.qmul.ac.uk/postgraduate/courses/english-language-requirements/index.html#Postgraduatelawtaughtprogrammes>

How will the quality of the programme be managed and enhanced? How do we listen to and act on your feedback?

The Student Voice Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between the Centre and its students. The Committee consists of student representatives from each programme in the Centre together with appropriate representation of academic and administrative staff. The Committee is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. The Committee meets regularly throughout the year.

The Centre operates a Postgraduate Taught Law Education Committee that advises its Director of Education on all matters relating to the delivery of taught programmes at the Centre, including monitoring the application of relevant QM policies. It also reviews proposals for new programmes and modules and proposed amendments to existing programmes and modules, before they are submitted to the Taught Programmes Board. Student views are incorporated in the Committee's work in various ways, such as through consideration of module experience surveys.

The Centre regularly reviews its taught postgraduate taught provision. This is a continuous process of reflection and action planning which is owned by those responsible for programme delivery. Students' views are considered in this process through analysis of the Postgraduate Taught Experience Survey and module experience surveys. This information is provided to the Faculty as part of regular censuses of the Centre's activities.

What academic support is available?

Students will receive a comprehensive induction. Students will be assisted with the preliminary stages of selecting a research topic, drafting a research proposal, considering their methodology and developing the skills needed to identify and use relevant materials. Lecturers on taught modules shall be available to discuss any concerns students might have with regard to the particular module or its content.

Programme-specific rules and facts

Students can take up to 60 credits outside of their programme within the postgraduate programmes offered by the School of Law.

In order to specialise in Competition Law, LLM students must take at least 120 credits, including their dissertation, in modules on the Competition Law programme.

How inclusive is the programme for all students, including those with disabilities?

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:

- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)
- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Examination Access Arrangements
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one "study skills" tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)

Links with employers, placement opportunities and transferable skills

There is a mentoring programme that matches students with available mentors from the profession. An embedded Careers and professional development team provide guidance in identifying and obtaining relevant internships, valuable employment-related skills and other work-related opportunities. There is a programme of co-curricular activities designed to foster professional development and related skills.
