Programme outline

The LLM in Intellectual Property Law offers students the chance to specialise in IP law from a national, regional and international perspective, both at theoretical and practical levels. Students are free to choose their options from one of the largest IP property programmes in the UK, with over 20 IP-specialist modules. The modules are taught by both research academics and practitioners from legal and business spheres. The modules comprise a mix of classroom based teaching assessed by examination or coursework or presentations. Some of the modules are devoted to the main Intellectual Property categories and are usually international and comparative by nature: e.g. Global IP Law, Comparative Copyright Law, EU and US Patent Law, Registered Trade Marks, EU and US Design Law. Other modules offer students perspectives on specialist industry and theoretical areas: e.g. Environment, Trade and IP, Digital IP, Fashion Law, Film Law, Animal Law, and Interactive Entertainment Law.

Aims of the programme

The LLM in Intellectual Property Law programme is designed for students who wish to take full advantage of the diverse research interests and industry know-how of our IP faculty, the largest academic IP faculty in the UK. Students have the opportunity to pick the modules which inform them on intellectual property law and policy as well as the necessary tools to develop their skills and expertise ex-post the LLM degree (whether as practitioners in law firms; in-house counsels; academic researchers; Government or policy advisors; trade organisations; the judiciary; and UN-based international organisations). The programme's wide module platter (which includes the interaction of IP law with economics, socio-legal and comparative perspectives) attracts a wide range of students from different backgrounds and jurisdictions including China, Japan, India, Singapore, Australia, Canada, Brazil, Kenya, Jamaica, Russia, Ukraine, USA and the EU Member States. The ultimate aim is to produce the best postgraduate students in the field of IP law and policy who will make an international impact on the theoretical and practical formulation, research and enforcement of IP law.

What will you be expected to achieve?

Students who successfully complete the programme will be able to:

- * Demonstrate a solid understanding of IP law and policy
- * Analyse complex situations from factual and legal perspectives
- * Be capable of researching and analysing IP issues across different areas of law
- * Understand how IP law is enforced in key jurisdictions
- * Demonstrate an understanding of the role IP law and policy within national, regional and international contexts
- * Appreciate the importance of economic analysis when applying IP law
- * Debate the relationship between IP law and other fields, notably human rights law, art law, media law and competition law from both theoretical and practical perspectives

Academic Content:

A 1	Demonstrate a systematic understanding and critical awareness of IP law and policy
A 2	Deal with complex situations and issues both systematically and creatively, make sound judgements therefrom, and communicate their conclusions clearly from factual and legal perspectives

Disciplinary Skills - able to:

B 1	Demonstrate originality in the application of knowledge, together with a practical understanding of established legal research and enquiry, and the conceptual understanding required to evaluate critically current research and advanced scholarship in the discipline
B 2	Demonstrate a conceptual and comprehensive understanding of intellectual property as it is approached in different legal jurisdictions

Attributes:

C 1	Demonstrate a comprehensive understanding of the role IP law and policy within national, regional and international contexts and an ability to evaluate critically this material
C 2	Deal with the complex issues arising from the relationship between IP law and other fields of law and socio-legal studies, from both theoretical and practical perspectives and communicate conclusions clearly to specialist, non-specialist and interdisciplinary audiences

How will you learn?

Students will learn through direct interaction with lecturers using a variety of teaching, learning and assessment strategies, including traditional and interactive lectures, seminar sessions, tutorials and e-learning. Students will also be expected to invest a significant amount of time in independent learning, including reading materials in advance of lectures/seminars, preparing class presentations, completing assignments and preparing for examinations.

In addition, students will need to carry out extensive research to complete the dissertation. Students will be provided with a variety of legal resources and receive training on how to use them.

How will you be assessed?

Assessment is by examination, oral presentation, essays and/or coursework for taught modules and by dissertation, if chosen.

How is the programme structured?

Please specify the structure of the programme diets for all variants of the programme (e.g. full-time, part-time - if applicable). The description should be sufficiently detailed to fully define the structure of the diet.

Master of Laws (LLM)

- Students on the LLM have to complete 180 credits comprising of:
 - 90 credits minimum from the compulsory elective modules
 - 30 credits minimum from the guided elective modules
 - 60 credits maximum from the free choice modules
- Students can take the Dissertation in Intellectual Property Law SOLM910 as part of the compulsory electives.
- Part-time students are normally expected to take 90 credits each year of their programme but this may be varied by special permission.

What are the entry requirements?

The usual qualification for entry to the LLM programme is a degree in law, or a degree with a substantial law content, of at least 2.1 honours (or equivalent). Law graduates with 2.2 honours who also have other legal qualifications and/or substantial professional legal experience may also qualify.

Non-law graduates with a minimum second class honours degree, that have also obtained a Merit (or 60 per cent) in the Common Professional Examination (CPE) or Graduate Diploma in Law (GDL) recognised by the UK professional bodies, may also qualify. Non-law graduates may also be considered on the basis of exceptional professional experience (of at least five years) in a legal area or an area directly related to their programme of study.

Applicants whose first language is not English must provide evidence of your English language proficiency. The usual English Language Requirements for Postgraduate Law Taught Programmes will apply. These may be accessed at <http://www.law.qmul.ac.uk/postgraduate/courses/english-language-requirements/index.html#Postgraduatelawtaughtprogrammes>

How will the quality of the programme be managed and enhanced? How do we listen to and act on your feedback?

The Student Voice Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between the Centre and its students. The Committee consists of student representatives from each programme in the Centre together with appropriate representation of academic and administrative staff. The Committee is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. The Committee meets regularly throughout the year.

The Centre operates a Postgraduate Taught Law Education Committee that advises its Director of Education on all matters relating to the delivery of taught programmes at the Centre, including monitoring the application of relevant QM policies. It also reviews proposals for new programmes and modules and proposed amendments to existing programmes and modules, before they are submitted to the Taught Programmes Board. Student views are incorporated in the Committee's work in various ways, such as through consideration of module experience surveys.

The Centre regularly reviews its taught postgraduate taught provision. This is a continuous process of reflection and action planning which is owned by those responsible for programme delivery. Students' views are considered in this process through analysis of the Postgraduate Taught Experience Survey and module experience surveys. This information is provided to the Faculty as part of regular censuses of the Centre's activities.

What academic support is available?

Students will receive a comprehensive induction. Students will be assisted with the preliminary stages of selecting a research topic, drafting a research proposal, considering their methodology and developing the skills needed to identify and use relevant materials. Lecturers on taught modules shall be available to discuss any concerns students might have with regard to the particular module or its content.

Programme-specific rules and facts

Students can take up to 60 credits outside of their programme within the postgraduate programmes offered by the School of Law.

In order to specialise in Intellectual Property Law, LLM students must take at least 120 credits in modules on the Intellectual Property Law programme.

How inclusive is the programme for all students, including those with disabilities?

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:

- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)

- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Examination Access Arrangements
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one "study skills" tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)

Links with employers, placement opportunities and transferable skills

There is a mentoring programme that matches students with available mentors from the profession. An embedded Careers and professional development team provide guidance in identifying and obtaining relevant internships, valuable employment-related skills and other work-related opportunities. There is a programme of co-curricular activities designed to foster professional development and related skills.
