Programme outline

The LLB English and European is a four-year law degree programme: the first two are spent at Queen Mary; the third is spent at a European partner University. The core modules studied at Queen Mary satisfy professional requirements for the foundations of legal knowledge and skills in England and Wales. Second year students are encouraged to select an option module which has a strong comparative or international law element in order to develop an understanding of legal systems other than that of England and Wales.

The third year of the programme is spent as an exchange student at a European partner University where students follow a programme of legal study approved by the host university and Director of Education of Law at Queen Mary.

A notable feature of the Queen Mary law degree programmes is the wide range of options available, many of which are taught by leading researchers in those subjects. In the final year there is an option to do supervised research in a topic of your choosing leading to a 10,000-word dissertation.

Aims of the programme

The LLB English and European Law programme offers intellectually able students the opportunity to study law from a variety of perspectives in a supportive environment. Teaching is strongly underpinned by the Departments' research. The programme encourages students to explore legal rules, principles, reasoning and ideas in their comparative, social, political, economic, historical, philosophical, and practical contexts. The programme is recognised as satisfying the academic developmental year of qualification for the solicitors and barristers professions in England and Wales.

Second year students are expected to select at least one option module which has a strong comparative or international law element in order to develop an understanding of legal systems other than that of England and Wales. To prepare students intending to take a year abroad at a university where tuition is not in English, there is a requirement that classes in the relevant language are taken during the first and second year.

The third year of the programme is spent as an exchange student at a university in continental Europe, where students follow a programme of legal study approved by the host university and the Head of the Department of Law at Queen Mary. The tuition at universities in Belgium, Denmark and the Netherlands is in English. At others it is in French, German, Italian or Spanish; students choosing to study at these universities will strengthen their foreign language skills during the programme.

In the final year, students take a module in Jurisprudence and Legal Theory which examines aspects of the philosophy of law. Beyond this, the programme enables students to select modules covering a wide variety of subjects to reflect their interests and aspirations. There is an opportunity to research and write a dissertation in the final year.

Outside the programme, students may choose to take part in the work of the Queen Mary Legal Advice Centre, in a student-led Pro-Bono legal advice scheme, and in mooting.

What will you be expected to achieve?

PROGRAMME SPECIFIC DETAILS:

DEPARTMENT SPECIFIC DETAILS:

Students will gain experience in legal practice and to develop skills and attributes of a successful legal practitioner. Students who successfully complete the programme will demonstrate achievement in all the following areas.

Subject-specific

1. Identify and apply knowledge to difficult situations of significant legal complexity, through the analysis of facts and the production of well-supported conclusions in relation to them.
2. Recognition of sophisticated legal and related non-legal issues and formulation of a clear and coherent research plan.
3. Production of a clear and accurate presentation of the law on a topic directly from primary sources and use of techniques of legal interpretation to complex issues arising from them.

Skills

1. Take initiative in the design and managing of their own projects and find their own sources (both legal and non-legal).
2. Make independent assessment of their own progress, present work in timely fashion for feedback and assistance, and establish a programme of action based on feedback given.
3. Write and use orally fluent and complex prose, using legal terminology correctly.
4. Read and compare a range of complex works within and about law and to summarise their arguments accurately.

Please note that the following information is only applicable to students who commenced their Level 4 studies in 2017/18, or 2018/19

In each year of undergraduate study, students are required to study modules to the value of at least 10 credits, which align to one or more of the following themes:

- networking
- multi- and inter-disciplinarity
- international perspectives
- enterprising perspectives.

These modules will be identified through the Module Directory, and / or by your School or Institute as your studies progress.

Academic Content:
A 1	Knowledge: Students should demonstrate a basic knowledge and understanding of the principal features of the legal system of England and Wales and that of the European Union; they should be able to: (a) demonstrate knowledge of a substantial range of major concepts, values, principles and rules of those systems; (b) explain the main legal institutions and procedures of those systems; (c) demonstrate the study in depth and in context of some substantive areas of the legal systems.
A 2	Application and problem-solving: Students should demonstrate a basic ability to apply knowledge to a situation of limited complexity in order to provide arguable conclusions for concrete problems (actual or hypothetical).
A 3	Sources and research: Students should demonstrate a basic ability to (a) identify accurately the issue(s) which require researching; (b) identify and retrieve up-to-date legal information, using paper and electronic sources; (c) use primary and secondary legal sources relevant to the topic under study.
A 4	Students should demonstrate a basic ability to understand different approaches to law, drawing on their experiences of the subjects studied at another European university law school during their year abroad.

Disciplinary Skills - able to:
B 1	Analysis, synthesis, critical judgement and evaluation: Students should demonstrate a basic ability to: (a) recognise and rank items and issues in terms of relevance and importance; (b) bring together information and materials from a variety of different sources; (c) produce a synthesis of relevant doctrinal and policy issues in relation to a topic; (d) make a critical judgement of the merits of particular arguments; (e) present and make a reasoned choice between alternative solutions.
B 2	Autonomy and ability to learn: Students should demonstrate a basic ability, with limited guidance to: (a) act independently in planning and undertaking tasks in areas of law which they have already studied; (b) be able to undertake independent research in areas of law which they have not previously studied starting from standard legal information sources; (c) reflect on their own learning and to seek and make use of feedback.

Attributes:
C 1	Communication and Literacy: Both orally and in writing, students should demonstrate a basic ability: (a) to understand and use the English language proficiently in relation to legal matters; (b) where a student has studied at a European university law school at which the medium of study is a language other than English, to understand and use the relevant language proficiently in relation to legal matters; (c) to present knowledge or an argument in a way which is comprehensible to others and which is directed at their concerns; (d) to read and discuss legal materials which are written in technical and complex language.
C 2	Other key skills: numeracy, information technology and teamwork: A student should demonstrate a basic ability: (a) where relevant and as the basis for an argument, to use, present and evaluate information provided in numerical or statistical form; (b) to produce a word-processed essay or other text and to present such work in an appropriate form; (c) to use the internet and email; (d) to use some electronic information retrieval systems. (e) to work in groups as a participant who contributes effectively to the group's task.

How will you learn?

DEPARTMENT SPECIFIC DETAILS:

The Department of Law promotes active learning within a context of clear learning objectives. Students are encouraged to take responsibility for their own learning. All modules make use of an online learning environment. Most modules have a weekly course element and in some this will require collaborative group work. Clear guidance on basic and supplementary reading is given.

Teaching for core modules is typically through lectures (to the whole year group) and tutorials (small groups of around 15 students). By attending lectures students hear from experts in a legal field who will also be setting and marking their examinations. Lectures may have several different goals: to provide an introduction to a particular topic; to cast light on the context of a module; to provide alternatives to orthodox approaches; to provide an overview of the topic; to explain particularly difficult aspects of a topic; to introduce comparative aspects of a topic; to cover reform proposals and recent reforms in the law which are not covered in the textbooks.

Elective modules make use of a variety of teaching methods. Small group work often include discussion structured around questions and readings distributed in advance. Talking about law fluently is a vital part of developing legal reasoning skills. By expressing ideas you are able to refine and reflect on them. Tutorials and seminars are supportive environments in which ideas can be exchanged and difficulties can be ironed out.

A considerable amount of independent study is expected throughout the programme. This involves reading cases, legislation and academic texts. Independent study may also involve working with other students in pairs or small groups: students are encouraged to set up informal study groups to help each other get to grips with topics before or after tutorials and seminars.

The approach to teaching during the year abroad is determined by the host university

How will you be assessed?

DEPARTMENT SPECIFIC DETAILS:

Modules are assessed by a combination of coursework, presentation, in-course tests, dissertations and a final examination. Clear guidance on coursework requirements are given, emphasising approaches to coursework of various types and how to avoid plagiarism, together with rules and procedures.

Examinations are typically of a two to three hour paper undertaken in the January, or May/June examination periods.

Examination papers are reviewed by an Internal Moderator and then by External Examiners. All exam papers go through a moderation marking procedure. A selection of first class and failed scripts together with a representative sample of intermediate scripts are sent to the External examiners for quality control and approval of marks.

How is the programme structured?

Please specify the structure of the programme diets for all variants of the programme (e.g. full-time, part-time - if applicable). The description should be sufficiently detailed to fully define the structure of the diet.

Students are required to take 120 credits each year at Queen Mary. Modules are either 30 credits or 15 credits. In year one, there are two 30-credit core modules: Public Law and Land Law and four 15 credit modules: Law in Context; European Union Law; Contract Law I and Contract Law II. In the second year there are three 30-credit core modules: Tort Law; Equity and Trusts, and Criminal Law. In addition, students select 30-credits of elective modules. Students who intend to spend their year abroad at a university where the English language is not the medium of study must (unless formally exempted) take and satisfactorily complete an approved course of study in the relevant language during the the first two years at Queen Mary. During the year abroad, the programme will be in accordance with the regulations of the host institution and approved by the Head of the Law Department at Queen Mary. Students may not take modules which correspond to or substantially overlap with modules previously studied at Queen Mary. In the final year, there is one 30-credit core modules: Jurisprudence and Legal Theory, in addition students select 90-credits of elective modules. Students may not select an elective module which substantially overlaps with a module studied the host university in year 3.

What are the entry requirements?

PROGRAMME SPECIFIC DETAILS:

The normal offer for admission to the LLB programme is Grades A*AA at A-Level. Excludes General Studies and Critical Thinking. Full entry requirements (including contextual admissions) can be found here: <https://www.qmul.ac.uk/undergraduate/coursefinder/courses/2025/law/#entry-requirements>

DEPARTMENT SPECIFIC DETAILS:

Applicants offering other qualifications will, if successful, receive offers at an equivalent level (e.g. the International Baccalaureate Diploma with 36 points overall and at least 6, 6, 6 at higher level).

Applications are welcomed from suitably qualified and motivated mature applicants (those over 21 years old). In addition to academic profile, the Department will consider skills and qualifications acquired since mature candidates were last in full-time education as well as evidence of a commitment to study law at degree level.

In terms of access and foundation students, all UCAS applications will be held until January. The Access to HE entry requirements is 45 credits at level 3.

How will the quality of the programme be managed and enhanced? How do we listen to and act on your feedback?

DEPARTMENT SPECIFIC DETAILS:

Overall administrative responsibility and QMUL accountability for the programme rests with the Department of Law.

The Programme Director is responsible for the academic content and quality of the programme and any changes to the curriculum, in addition to ensuring the maintenance of a consistent quality of teaching across the programme.

The Law undergraduate office is responsible for the overall administrative delivery of the programme, including any issues relating to registration, complaints, pastoral care, appeals, and award for the programme.

The overall management and enhancement of the programme lies with the Department of Law's Education Committee chaired by the Director of Education.

The Student Voice Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between the Department and its students. The committee consists of student representatives from each programme and each year in the Department together with appropriate representation from staff within the Department. It is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. Student Voice Committees meet regularly throughout the academic year.

Student views are incorporated formally through representation on the Department Education Committee.

All schools/institutes at Queen Mary operate an Annual Programme Review of their taught undergraduate and postgraduate provision. This review is a continuous process of reflection and action planning which is owned by those responsible for programme delivery. Students' views are considered in this process through the analysis of the NSS and Student Experience Surveys.

What academic support is available?

DEPARTMENT SPECIFIC DETAILS:

Module tutors:

In each module, tutors are responsible for marking written assignments (see feedback below), and are responsible for recording tutorial attendance. Additionally at the end of each term, they make a short report on students progress in written assignments and contributions to tutorial discussions. This information is saved in student files and is used for the purpose of writing references.

The Senior Tutor and Programme Leads:

The Senior Tutor and Programme Leads are available to help with any problems that arise that cannot be resolved by your module tutors.

Feedback:

Feedback on progress in each module is provided throughout the year in various ways (for example, comments on written assignments, and guidance given in lectures/seminars and tutorials).

Feedback and Advice Hours:

All academics have dedicated feedback and advice hours published on the website so students may visit them to discuss any aspect of their learning on specific modules.

In addition to the above students are supported by the Undergraduate Teaching and Learning Team:

The Teaching and Learning Team support the delivery of all Law UG programmes and are available to meet with students and provide support in an array of areas, such as Student Voice; Assessments; Digital Learning; Student Support.

The Teaching and Learning Team includes the Department's Student Support Officers (SSO's). Students receive pastoral support in the form of an allocated Student Support Officer. SSO's are the first point of contact for students who need support with life at university. This includes module queries, timetabling queries, attendance issues, and support in wellbeing and mental health issues.

How inclusive is the programme for all students, including those with disabilities?

DEPARTMENT SPECIFIC DETAILS:

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:

- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA)
- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Special arrangements in examinations
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one "study skills" tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)
- Mentoring support for students with mental health issues and conditions on the autistic spectrum.

Programme-specific rules and facts

DEPARTMENT SPECIFIC DETAILS:

Students are invited to attend Welcome Week before the start of Semester A, during this time students are provided with introductory talks on all the services and support mechanisms available within the school and wider Queen Mary community. This includes introducing students to key support mechanisms in the Department.

Standard bachelors programme academic regulations and progression apply [<https://www.qmul.ac.uk/governance-and-legal-services/media/dgls-media/policy-zone/2024-25/Academic-Regulations-2024-25.pdf>].

Law programmes cover the 7 foundations of legal knowledge as prescribed by the Bar Standards Board and successful completion of law programmes, including passing all 7 of the prescribed modules, should satisfy the academic element of training necessary as part of entry to the Bar. The Bar has additional requirements such as vocational experience which are not included in the law programmes.

The designated modules are as follows:

- Obligations I (Contract): satisfied by taking and passing LAW4104 Contract Law I, and LAW4105 Contract Law II.
- Obligations II (Tort): satisfied by taking and passing LAW5001 Tort Law.
- Criminal Law: satisfied by taking and passing LAW5005 Criminal Law.
- Equity and the Law of Trusts: satisfied by taking and passing either LAW5003 Equity and Trusts, or LAW6056 Equity and Trusts (Level 6).
- Law of the European Union: satisfied by taking and passing either LAW4009 European Union Law, or LAW5105 Law of the European Union, AND LAW4001 Public Law.
- Property Law (Land Law): satisfied by taking and passing LAW4006 Land Law.
- Public Law (Constitutional and Administrative Law): satisfied by taking and passing LAW4001 Public Law.

Law programmes also provide a sound educational basis for students wishing to further their training and take the Solicitors Qualifying Exam by the Solicitors Regulation Authority.

Students cannot usually take part in the year abroad unless they achieve a 2:1 average in year one modules. Students cannot take part in the year abroad if they have failed a module and there are no further opportunities to resit.

Links with employers, placement opportunities and transferable skills

DEPARTMENT SPECIFIC DETAILS: The Department of Law has a dedicated Careers Consultant,Careers Adviser, part of the Queen Mary Careers Team, who is regularly available in the department for one-to-one support. The Law Adviser also manages Careers Brief, the School’s careers website, and arranges employer workshops in areas such as commercial awareness, applications and interview skills. The Legal Advice Centre provides undergraduate law students with the opportunity to place law into a practical legal context under the supervision of volunteer lawyers. Lawyers from Allen & Overy, Field Fisher Waterhouse Mishcon de Reya, Nabas Legal and Reed Smith work closely with students, providing guidance and supervision, as well as training and careers advice. The Queen Mary Student Pro Bono Group (QMSPBG) is a student group created by students for students. As students develop their skills and legal knowledge, they are able to become involved in increasingly challenging and hands-on projects. The Queen Mary Student Pro Bono Group has well-developed links with the London legal community. Students have the opportunity to volunteer at organisations that provide pro bono legal advice and to ‘shadow’ solicitors. Placement programmes operate through partnerships with leading law firms such as Berwin Leighton Paisner LLP, SNR Denton, Clifford Chance and Reed Smith LLP. Queen Mary runs a Streetlaw Programme, which is based on a US model to provide an outreach volunteer programme to local schools and communities. Students visit primary and secondary schools to teach pupils relevant parts of the law. The Group also offers exciting opportunities in international law, in the past students have worked with organisations such as A4ID and Lawyers Without Borders. The Queen Mary Mooting Society plays an active part of undergraduate life at Queen Mary. Under the auspices of the Student Moot Master and Student Mooting Committee, students have the opportunity to become involved in both internal and external mooting competitions.
